

TRITHA

One of India's most promising musicians and gifted singer, songwriter and composer; Tritha is a rising figure in India and Europe, not only as a performer but also as a strong and modern Indian woman fighting for Women's freedom and independence.

Back from America end 2016, representing India at the one-month Onebeat program where she toured with 25 international socially engaged music artists in October, Tritha was also featured on BBC World, European TV channels ARTE:Tracks and Canal +, where she was termed as a "Music Activist". Her picture has been traveling all over the world in 2011 and 2012 with exhibition - 'Women Changing India', organized by Magnum Photos from Paris & BNP Paribas.

In her younger days, she had won popular TV show Antakshari on Zee Tv, and in the recent past, represented INDIA with her band Tritha Electric at the Asia Music Festival 2013 in Miri, Malaysia, in the Kaloobang Festival at Reunion Islands in 2014 and the prestigious Womex festival in Budapest in 2015.

Her debut album was released on Sony Music in June, 2014, "PaGLI" - a story of the metamorphosis of the Indian woman from traditions to modernity.

A prodigy singer as a child, Tritha traces her roots to Kolkata, training in Indian classical vocal music since she was 5 years old, with several gurus in Agra and Patiala gharanas and now Bishnupur Gharana since 10 years under the focussed guidance of Pandit Santanu Bandhyopadyay.

Tritha also teaches Indian classical music in Europe and India combining it with Music Healing, Activism and Music Meditation workshops.

She has been invited for special performances, with world famous percussionist Sivamani, designer Urvashi Kaur for live performance on the ramp of India Fashion Week, Mallika Sarabhai for a dance production about Sufi saint Lal Ded from the 14th century and the American writer/activist Eve Ensler, famed for the book Vagina Monologues and for the One Billion rising movement.

Tritha had also been a speaker at the TEDx Delhi, where she got a standing ovation for her speech and songs about the New Indian Woman's Voice and relevance on the global front today and has an artists collective SPACE in New Delhi directed towards women empowerment in India. In June 2012, she was featured on a full page in Marie Claire India as one among the ten most interesting young Indian women and also that same month, in Tehelka magazine.

The summer of 2016, she was on tour with her band in France, Italy, Germany, Luxembourg and Switzerland.

Her two next albums with her indo-french band Tritha Electric and her sound healing project with French musician Martin Dubois are due for release early 2017.

More details on Tritha's music projects; visit www.tritha.com

Press articles

*'Punk is about my struggles as a woman in India' - Tehelka magazine, India*

*A message through music - The Herald, Goa*

*Music was the path to financial independence for this Indian woman -PRI's The World*

*Femme of Fluent Fusion - New Indian Express*

Video samples:

Tritha and her Tibetan Bowl: Tritha is in Italy !! She is inspired ! She sings about one beautiful moment - of togetherness, of music, of the times now to heal life through musical vibrations. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=rfC04idRi-l>

Tritha & Martin: Bhavani Dayani - a song dedicated to the Divine feminine goddess in Raag Bhairavi shot in the French Alps. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=7Pzgqo3GwKE>

Kali's Forest : From her social music collective “SPACE”, this song about domestic violence in India is inspired by a true story invoking the shakti of of Goddess Kali, a hindu goddess known to fight against evil. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tzDudAyRef8>

Tritha Electric on National Television : This song is a live rendition of “PaGLi”. A cry to all the women who suffers discrimination and harrassment on an everyday basis on the streets of India, just for the sheer fact of being a woman wanting to be “free”.
<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=eDBU47l0Mb4>

Tritha Electric in Paris : Selected from India to play in the Climate Conference Cop 21 in December 2015, Tritha sings our her frustrations about corruption comparing the country to a Fish market. <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sqV8TbFXKns>