ALBUMS

PaGLi is the story of Indian woman's metamorphosis from traditions to breaking rules to find her freedom. This is the story of an Indian classical voice finding solace in craziness and sometimes rather punk moods. Released on Sony Music India in 2015

A compilation of songs with different artists from India and Paris, this album truly represents Indian world music from the eyes and voice of a strong Indian girl turning into a woman with radical views and feeling socially responsible.

Tritha Electric was born from a meeting between Tritha and two French musicians, Paul Schneiter and Mathias Durand, captivated by the depth of Indian raagas.

From this fusion emerged Raagas in Paris, an album released in 2017 under the Silk Road label.

Blending the timeless essence of Indian raagas with the mesmerizing textures of psychedelic rock, the album weaves a musical journey where krautrock, blues, and love songs bridge tradition and modernity, from East and West.

The collaboration with French producer World Wild Web gave birth to Prophet In The Peacock Garden, an indian psychedelic journey into a garden of electronic bliss.

Released on HIFI/LOFI Records, the album features remixes by The Juan MacLean, a longtime DFA collaborator, and Franz Matthews, the label's founder.

A hypnotic fusion where electronic rhythms and enchanting vocals intertwine, creating a timeless sonic and dance experience.

Released on July 3, 2020, on «International Plastic Bag Free Day», Pachamama pays tribute to ancestral traditions while calling for a respectful evolution of our modern world in harmony with Mother Earth.

Through ten tracks inspired by nature and its elements dedicated to Breath, Rain, Clouds, Dance, Mysticism, and Awakening, this album was crafted to radiate positive energy. Inviting listeners to reconnect with the planet and human values, in these times of conflict, health crises, and social upheaval.

Born from a collaboration with French multipercussionist Martin Dubois, Éléments d'Existence explores the five elements Earth, Water, Fire, Air, and Space, through a sonic healing journey. The album was first presented in 2017 at the inaugural Sound Healing Festival in Geneva, Switzerland.

Blending vocals, Indian ragas, and Mongolian throat singing, this album is recognized as music medicine, resonating across yoga and spiritual music festivals in Europe and India, as well as in holistic centers, alternative therapy spaces, and Buddhist monasteries.

Celebrating the Enlightenment Day of Buddha, Dharani is a 55 mins sound journey of 100000 purification mantras for the soul. For purification of present & past karmas & for ancestors.

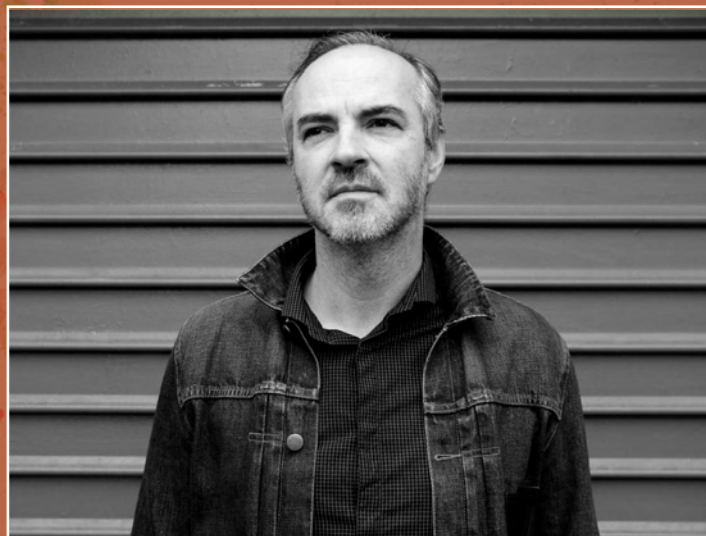

Translated from Tibetan and chanted in Sanskrit, these sacred mantras intertwine pure sounds of nature, activating inner transformation.

Recorded and produced in the French Alps at the Shangpa Karmaling Buddhist Institute, this sonic journey invites the listener into a state of elevation and renewal.

UPCOMING PROJECTS

Tritha's first performance of 2025 in France will take place in April at Palais des Congrès in Versailles as part of «Les Lumières de Gaïa», an immersive event featuring breathwork, shamanism, sacred music, and transformation.

Tritha is in pre-production of an album titled «Acid Raga Experience» releasing in autumn 2025, in collaboration with French composer Marc Collin, founder of the band Nouvelle Vague.
